RECRUITMENT PERSONALISED

Our success rate is down to our approach to recruitment and the people who deliver it. Fluid, smart, human and responsive, we operate considerably differently from many others in the sector.

Day-to-day contact is with one lead consultant, but we work as a whole. With centralised role functions, all members of our team can be deployed on an assignment, rather than working in sector-based silos or in competition with one another. This way clients benefit from the expert research skills, specialist network, years of experience, and latest market insight from across our entire business – with personal service as standard.

STRATEGIC ADVICE

In the world of global technology recruitment, there are a multitude of competing factors to consider when hiring for both contract and permanent staff positions.

It's not just the financial package or contract type on offer that entices the right candidates, in the same way it's not only appropriate skills and experience that make for a good shortlist.

We help navigate ALL factors – cultural fit, relocation considerations, alongside the package and other market trends and analyses, so that clients and candidates make decisions based on a full and honest picture of the opportunity in front of them.

GLOBAL REACH

Our global reach, local understanding and niche sector expertise makes us an invaluable recruitment partner. All our strategic consultancy and research processes are informed and enriched with real-time statistics, data analytics, AI and machine learning, ensuring our clients get the full benefit of both human and technological intelligence behind their search.

Whilst we source local talent through our regional networks, increasingly, placements involve relocating homes and families often to the other side of the world. Life changing opportunities and big decisions.

SPECIALIST NETWORK

The search for your perfect candidate starts with our own specialist database. A carefully curated and growing global network of candidates, who include some of the world's leading industry experts.

A network that's as broad as it is diverse, with skills and experience represented across multiple sub-sectors of technology. From semi-conductor engineers to senior AI developers, STEM graduates to C-Suite executives, our network has it covered.
